Jazz FM, London's leading jazz radio station, has launched a new advertising campaign featuring billboards that promote pop, rock, and soul artists. The campaign is designed to attract a wider audience and reflect the station's diverse programming.

The billboards feature a variety of artists, including pop stars Dua Lipa and Ed Sheeran, rock bands The Rolling Stones and Queen, and soul legends Aretha Franklin and Marvin Gaye. The ads are placed in high-traffic areas around London, including bus stops and tube stations.

Jazz FM's marketing director, Emma Jones, said that the campaign is designed to show that the station is "more than just jazz." She said: "We play a wide range of music, from jazz to pop to rock to soul. This campaign is a reflection of that diversity and we hope it will attract new listeners to the station."

The campaign has been well-received by listeners and industry experts. Radio Today editor Mark Strippel said: "This is a bold and innovative campaign from Jazz FM. It shows that the station is not afraid to think outside the box and appeal to a wider audience."
