Symptoms of EBV

The symptoms of EBV can vary depending on the person. Some people may only experience mild symptoms, such as fever and fatigue. Others may experience more severe symptoms, such as swollen lymph nodes, sore throat, and headache.

The most common symptoms of EBV include:

- Fever
- Fatigue
- Swollen lymph nodes
- Sore throat
- Headache
- Muscle aches
- Skin rash

In some cases, EBV can also lead to more serious health problems, such as mononucleosis, lymphoma, and nasopharyngeal carcinoma.

Diagnosis of EBV

EBV is diagnosed through a blood test. The blood test will look for antibodies to EBV. If the blood test is positive, it means that you have been infected with EBV.

In some cases, your doctor may also Free Download other tests, such as a throat swab or a lymph node biopsy. These tests can help to confirm the diagnosis of EBV.

Treatment of EBV

There is no specific treatment for EBV. However, the symptoms of EBV can be treated. Treatment may include:

- Rest
- Over-the-counter pain relievers
- Antiviral medications

In most cases, the symptoms of EBV will improve within a few weeks. However, some people may experience fatigue for several months.

Prevention of EBV

There is no vaccine to prevent EBV. However, there are some things you can do to reduce your risk of infection:

- Avoid contact with people who are infected with EBV.
- Wash your hands frequently with soap and water.
- Do not share personal items, such as toothbrushes or razors.
